RUSHVILLE BOY KILLED BY TRAIN

Bertrand Mobley, Age Fifteen is Hit by Monon Hoosier Limited in Indianapolis.

HIS FRIEND IS VICTIM ALSO

Two Students in State School For the Deaf, Walking on Track,
Blinded by Snow.

Bertrand Mobley, age fifteen, said to be a resident of this city and a nephew of Mrs. Lillie Carroll of this city, was killed in Indianapolis by a fast Monon train yesterday afternoon. George J. Malatin, age fifteen, of Hammond, a friend of Mobley, was also killed. The two boys were students in the State School for the Deaf.

Dispatches say that Mrs. Carroll of this city was notified of the death. The city directory does not give the name of Mrs. Carroll and people of the same name in Rushville do not know of such a woman here. It is supposed that she lives some place in Rush county. Young Mobley's parents are believed to be dead. He is remembered as a visitor in this city by some Rushville people. The Indianapolis News says today of the accident:

George J. Malatin, fifteen years old, from Hammond, Ind., and Bertrand Mobley, fifteen years old, from Rushville, students at the State School for the Deaf, were killed yesterday afternoon, about two hundred feet south of the Sixty-third street crossing of the Monon railroad tracks, when they were run down by the northbound Hoosier Limited passenger train. A blinding snow was falling at the time, against which the boys were walking in the direction of the approaching train.

The train was stopped and the bodies were found badly mangled, but not to such an extent as to prevent identification.

Persons who saw the two boys shortly before they met their death said they were walking with their hats pulled down and with their heads lowered to avoid the blinding snow. The train is said to have been traveling at a fast rate of speed, and it rounded a curve so suddenly that it is believed the boys did not notice it. The two boys were thrown clear of the railroad tracks and landed in a ditch.

The train crew placed the boys' bodies in the mail coach and took them to the office of D. E. Hudson, station agent for the Monon railroad at Broad Ripple, where they remained until the arrival of Coroner Durham. The bodies were taken later to the Flanner & Buchanan undertaking establishment.

The train was in charge of J. Howland, engineer; J. O'Mara, conductor and L. I. Budge, fireman. Howland said as he approached the curve he sounded three warning whistles. He said that when his engine rounded the sharp curve he saw the two boys through the snow. He said he applied the brakes, but the train was going too fast to be stopped before striking the boys.

Richard O. Johnson, superintendent of the school was notified. Mobley was at once identified, but Malatin was at first believed to be Roland Marshall, another pupil, because Malatin had borrowed Marshall's hat and coat before he left the school.

Martin Malatin, father of one of the boys, was notified of his son's death, and Mrs. Lillie Carroll, an aunt of Mobley, who lives in Rushville was notified. Mobley had been at the institution for the last seven years and Malatin for five years.

COURT RESTRAINS WEEKS

Is Prohibited From Selling Any of His Holdings.

Judge Blair has granted a restraining order in the case of Lula A. Weeks against George F. Weeks for a divorce which was filed in the circuit court yesterday. The plaintiff asked for $9,000 alimony and asked for a restraining order to keep the defendant from selling any of his holdings. The case is set for hearing on Wednesday, December 13.

SCHOOL TEACHER ORDERED TO PAY

Court Decides For Defendant in the Case of State ex Rel. Alice Loper
vs. Clayton Curry.

IS SENT HERE FROM FAYETTE

In the case of the State ex rel. Agnes Alice Loper against Clayton Curry, sent here on a change of venue from Fayette county, the court this afternoon returned judgment in favor of the plaintiff, finding that the child in question is that of the defendant, Curry, who is a school teacher in Fayette county. The court ordered Curry to pay the defendant a stipulated sum at certain periods to support the child and further ordered that the "defendant is required to replevy all judgment with good freehold surety and in default thereof he shall be committed to jail." The evidence amounted to nothing more than testimony to show the defendant's true income. Sparks & Gary of this city, and Reuben Conner of Connersville represented Curry. The plaintiff lives in Indianapolis.

SEALS TO BE SOLD AT POST OFFICE

Tri Kappas Will Place Red Cross
Seals There on December
Fifteenth.

PLAN WAS TRIED LAST YEAR

The Tri Kappas who have charge of the sale of the Red Cross Christmas seals in this city, have made arrangements to place the seals on sale in the postoffice. Beginning December 15, a stand will be maintained by the Tri Kappas in the lobby of the postoffice. This plan was tried last year and was very successful as the postoffice is considered an ideal place in which to sell the little stickers. The revenue from the postoffice sales last year was very large and an effort will be made to surpass the amount taken in then. The seals are already on sale at all the business houses and while it is a little early, many have already been sold.

BURIAL IN CANADA.

The remains of Mrs. Ruth Ann Crawford, aged 86 years, whose death occurred Tuesday night at the home of her daughter, Mrs. James H. Roberts, in Knightstown, were yesterday shipped to Toronto, Canada, for burial. The deceased was a native of Canada. She had been ill for the past six years, a stroke of paralysis leaving her an invalid. Five sons and two daughters survive, the sons residing in Ohio and the absent daughter in California.

BRAND STORY AS HUGE JOKE

I. & C. Officials Declare Latest Fanciful Dream of Traction Line
Editors is Preposterous.

LATEST DOPE IS THE BEST YET

Rumor is Going Rounds Line Will be Extended to Cincinnati by Way of Richmond.

Basing their information upon the facts that the proposed Richmond & Eastern traction line is now a certainty, and that the construction will be started in the near future, and, that an article in the Engineering News, which states that the I. & C. officials have decided the route of their Cincinnati extension and have re-engaged John H. Moore as chief engineer, the Liberty (Ind.) Herald states that the I. & C. extension has been determined by the movement of the R. & E. officials threatening to pre-empt the proposed right of way for the extension.

I. & C. officials here deny that such is the case. They declare that the route for the proposed extension of the line is no more definite than it was when it was first planned to get the line into Cincinnati. It is very likely that it will be some time before the route is decided on as has been reiterated by President Charles L. Henry any number of times.

The Herald says the right of way, long considered favorable by the I. & C. includes Richmond, Liberty, Oxford, and Hamilton, Ohio, and the Herald infers that the action of the R. & E. has caused the I. & C. officials to determine this as the line of their extension.

The Herald does not state the route determined for the extension of the I. & C. but it is inferred that business advantages between Liberty and Hamilton that the R. & E. will gain if they pre-empt this route have caused the route to be agreed upon by the I. & C. Practically speaking the route will extend from Connersville to Richmond and then over the right of way, which the R. & E. threatens to pre-empt, to Oxford and Hamilton.

I. & C. officials brand the story that they plan to extend by way of Richmond from Connersville to Hamilton and Cincinnati as false and ridiculous. They declare that if they did plan to run the line up to Richmond and back to Hamilton in order to shut off the Richmond & Eastern traction line, that they would not make their plans public. They assert that such an intention was never even considered and that it is the most unreasonable rumor which has yet been afloat concerning the I. & C. extension. They seek the shortest and best route to Cincinnati.

UNION MEETING TOMORROW

Men and Religious Forward Movement to be Discussed.

Ministers of the city urge that a large and representative audience be present tomorrow night at the Main Street Christian church when a union meeting of the churches of the city will be held. The Rev. W. H. Wylie of the St. Paul M. E. church will discuss the Men and Religion Forward Movement. It is hoped that the laymen of the city will become interested in the movement.

ONE AT PRINCESS NEXT WEEK

Due to the inclement weather last night the second of the Christmas carnival motion picture shows, which was held at the Palace theater last night, was not as much of a success from a financial standpoint as was expected. The Rushville Retail Merchants Association which had the show in charge, cleared only ten dollars. Only two shows were given, but the audiences were very appreciative. Clarence Backus, of Connersville, sang in a manner that was very pleasing and which brought loud applause. The next benefit show will be given at the Princess next Friday night.

ARE SUCCESSFUL IN REAL ESTATE

Local Young Men, Find Good Field in Gary.

MR. GUFFIN HERE ON A VICIT

G. Paul Guffin, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Guffin, living east of the city, and a partner in the real estate firm of Guffin & Mauzy of Gary, Ind., is here on his annual visit with relatives and friends. Harold Mauzy, largely related and well known here, is a partner of Mr. Guffin. They grew up as boys together, went to school together and are now associated in business together. The two thrifty young men are doing an excellent business in Gary as there is a great field for real estate enterprises in Gary which has grown from nothing to a thriving city of 25,000 people in five years. E. H. Phelps, a classmate of Mr. Guffin in Michigan University, has only recently been made a third member of the firm.

POLIO'S FOURTH VICTIM

TRIAL CAME TO ABRUPT ENDING

Case of State vs. Nohn Newkan For Heavy Hauling, Dismissed Because of Faulty Affidavit.

WAS MACADAM, NOT GRAVEL

Seceral Witnesses Were Examined
Before Motion to Quash Was Made by Defense.

The case of the State vs. John Newkan, charged with heavy hauling on an affidavit filed by John Ryan, road supervisor of Richland township, came to a sudden end this afternoon, when Squire Kratzer dismissed the charge on a motion by the attorneys for the defense. John Kiplinger, shortly after court convened this afternoon, made a motion to quash on the grounds that the defendant was being tried on an affidavit for hauling over a gravel road when in fact it had been proved that the road was macadam. Squire Kratzer sustained the motion and dismissed the case because of the faulty affidavit.

The motion to quash came after the State had rested its case and came as a great surprise. It was ended before the defense had placed a witness on the stand and took the State by surprise. It is understood that Mr. Ryan will file another affidavit and the next time it will read over a macadamized road. If this is not done the case may go to the grand jury. The State was represented by Dennis O'Neil and H. A. Ross of Andersonville. Megee & Kiplinger and Elmer Williams were the attorneys for Newkan.

The trial started shortly after ten o'clock this morning and Squire Kratzer was compelled to hold court in the mayor's office because of the large crowd. Twenty-seven witnesses had been summoned and the case seemed to attract the attention of the entire neighborhood of Neff's Corner.

According to the testimony, the defendant, John Newkan on November 17, while in the employe of Omer Stevens, hauled a heavy load of crushed stone over the Andersonville-Milroy pike after he had been warned not to do so by the Richland township road supervisor, John Ryan. The road at the time was said to have been wet and soft and in no condition for heavy hauling. The stone was being hauled for the construction of the Chester George road and was obtained at a stone quarry near Neff's Corner.

Frank Seniors testified he saw the wagon in front of the Ryan residence and that it contained one and three-quarter yards of stone. Mr. Seniors said he had had twenty years experience in the stone business and judged the stone would weigh 5500 pounds. The wagon, in his opinion would weigh 1800 pounds, making a total weight, in his estimation of between 6000 and 6500 pounds. He also said the road had been repaired frequently and generally was in good condition, but because of the numerous stone wagons going over it, was soft on this particular day.

Elmer Ryan testified that Newkan stopped at their house and he read the law on heavy hauling to him. Young Ryan said Newkan replied that he did not care what the law said and would continue to haul. Ryan said the wagon wheels sank in the road two or three inches. When asked on cross-examination for a description of the wagon he said it was 9 feet long, 3 feet wide and 22 inches deep.

John Ryan, the prosecuting witness in the case, said he had warned the defendant and even asked him to unhitch and leave the loaded wagon at his house and haul it when the road was not soft. Mr. Ryan said the tires measured less than three inches and that the wagon held one and three-quarters yards. In his opinion the load cut in the road at least two and one-half inches. He had promised to "stick" Newkan if he drove over the road, but the young man did not pay any attention. The State closed its case shortly before noon.

CARTHAGE FIVE LOSES TO N. C. HOLT

Greenfield Man Who Would Leave
Thanksgiving Dinner For Checker Game, is Victorious.

FAIL TO RETRIEVE THE LOSSES

Anxious to regain lost honors as checker players, Otto McCarty, Glen Rawls, Howard Henley, Van Hood, and Ed Bitner, champion checker players of Carthage, came Thursday evening to avenge themselves on Noah C. Holt, one of the checker experts of the State, says the Greenfield Reporter.

Mr. Holt was glad to accommodate them at his home and contested five boards with the visitors, playing a total of twenty-eight games. Mr. Holt won nine games, lost eight, and eleven were draws.

While the visitors understand the game well, they do not seem able to win from Mr. Holt, who would leave a fine Thanksgiving dinner, without any regrets, to play an exciting game of checkers.

WERE ASTONISHED BY THE CONFESSION

Local Labor Men Were Surprised
When They Read of McNamara
Brothers Admitting Guilt.

WONDER ABOUT THAT $190,000

Local labor men were very much astonished when they read this morning of the McNamara brothers confessing to be guilty of the Times explosion in Los Angeles, Cal. The News was received by many of them last night as hoax and they believed that it would turn out to be what is commonly known as a "grapevine."

Since they are convinced that the confession is a reality and that there is no doubt about the guilt of the two brothers, most local labor men are convinced that the offenders should be punished. They declare that the labor unions should not and will not stand for such practices among the members of their own ranks.

Rushville labor union men still believe that the extradition of the McNamaras from Indianapolis was a "frame-up" and that it amounted to little less than kidnapping. They believe that the probe in that respect should be continued.

Several of them here are wondering if they will get back their part of the $190,000 which has been collected from labor men to pay for the expense of defending the McNamaras. Every labor man in Rushville had to pay his allotment.

The new fifteen room home of Mrs. Luna Smith was dedicated at St. Paul Thursday with religious services conducted by the Rev. W. J. Webster of Alva, Okla., Miss Grace Sloan, an evangelist of Greentown, and the Rev. Mr. Bilheimer of Lewis Creek. Mrs. Smith, who is a Wesleyan Methodist, says the home was erected for the "salvation of souls."

HARNESS MAKER IS THE FALL GUY

Check Forger Who Worked Here
Leaves His Trail in Several Cities of State.

WORKS LAST IN BROWNSBURG

Always Presents Bad Paper to the Merchants of This Class After Making Purchase.

That the check forger who worked successfully here and in Morristown the latter part of last week is the same man who has passed forged checks in several other towns and cities in the State is evidenced by the fact that he has invariably presented the worthless paper at harness shops in payment for goods and received his haul in change.

Newspaper dispatches from all parts of the State have chronicled the work of the slick forger. It seems certain that it is the same man as he has worked in the same manner every place that he has been successful. Here he passed successfully a forged check on J. W. Tompkins, a harness dealer, and at Morristown he passed bad paper at a store where harness is sold.

It is also a noticeable fact that the checks passed by this man in the various places are invariably for an amount ranging from twelve to fifteen dollars. In each case he buys goods amounting to a sum so that he generally receives from five to eight dollars in change. In several cases where he has passed the checks successfully the goods which he purchased have been discarded by him and found.

His latest operations were in Brownsburg. He appeared there on Friday and passed a worthless check with the signature of Ellison Arbuckle, a farmer, on Charles W. McDaniel, a harness dealer, and got away with $5.60 in cash. The check was for $12 and the stranger bought $6.40 worth of goods and gave the check in payment, receiving $5.60 in change. The goods afterward were found alongside the railroad track.

At Franklin a stranger who worked in the same manner was unsuccessful. He tried to pass a check, believed to be forged, on A. Sneff, a harness dealer of that city, but failed. The Frankfort News says of the case:

He is a slick man—the individual that has worked a large number of harness makers by calling and making a purchase of a saddle or bridle, tendering in payment a check, which always calls for more than the purchase, the merchant paying the difference in cash and the man leaving with the purchase and change and then the check turning up bad.

After working Tipton, Kokomo, Frankfort, Lebanon and other places he has turned up at Rushville. He makes it a success wherever he goes and he always works the harness men. Wonder if harness men ever read the newspapers? There is some doubt about it, for this man has been widely advertised and it does seem that they would eventually drop onto him.

Man Who Takes Photos For Motion Picture is Versatile

The man who turns the crank that takes the pictures that make the moving picture show is one of the most versatile of all the men in the world. He is a stage director, a dramatic critic, a war correspondent, a landscape artist, a seafaring adventurer, an explorer, a teacher, a scientist, a historian and a preacher.

He points his camera daily at hundreds and hundreds of things—this morning at a fake Indiana plotting the murder of a phony cowboy in a spurious ranch in the Bronx; this afternoon he catches the maneuvers of a handful of steel filings animated by the attraction of an electro-magnet. Tomorrow he will catch a gigantic derrier working to remove the debris of a disastrous railroad wreck, and the next day his camera will, at intervals of three or four hours, record the bursting of a rosebud in some botanist's greenhouse.

His brothers are at work in every part of the world. The moving picture camera man is busy in the suburbs of Paris making pictures of North American Indians supposed to be on the warpath in Wyoming, and in Bound Brook, N. J., another camera man is taking pictures of Oliver Cromwell and his Roundhead soldiers, pictures destined to be exhibited under the actual shadow of that miniature of Westminster abbey where Cromwell's grinning skull was once exposed.

The glory that was Greece and the grandeur that was Rome have breathed and burned again in Flatbush, Brooklyn, for the delectation of millions of men there represented by the vicarious camera man. The Troy of Helen and the Carthage of Dido have been rebuilt and re-peopled in Hoboken for the moving picture man; the dignified Washington and the sorrowing Lincoln have been resurrected to enact again great deeds in the camera's mouth.

But not alone in the mimic world does the camera man find his field. The emperor of Germany, the czar of Russia, and the king of Spain are everywhere accompanied by official cinematographers, who record their every public royal act, for their contemporaries and for posterity. When the telegraph flashes the news of a disaster the cinematographer rushes to the scene with all the haste of the newspaper correspondent. If there is a great military parade, a meeting of notables, a naval review, or anything out of the ordinary and that is capable of visualization, it is there that the camera man must go to respond to the demand of the public for moving pictures. The moving picture camera man has cranked his machine within the sacred confines of Lhasa, in Tibet; he has leaned over the edge of a crater to take the picture of an actual hell, he has invaded the frozen fastnesses of the Arctic circle, and has brought away, to be the prize of every eye, the mysterious secrets of the densest jungles of darkest Africa.

It may be that sometimes he is vulgar, that often he is crude, that occasionally he is immoral; but it is also true that with his camera and its crank he has focused upon the space of a canvas screen the photographic presentment of the entire human race at work and at play.

The reader is invited to fare forth into the farthest reaches of the Bronx, a half dozen blocks beyond the northern terminus of the Third avenue L, and there go into a great theater with three stages, but lacking a proscenium arch and having no boxes, parquet, balcony or gallery.

"Best on Earth"

This is the verdict of R. J. Howell, Tracy, O., who bought Foley's Honey and Tar Compound for his wife. "Her case was worst I have ever seen, and looked like a sure case of consumption. Her lungs were sore and she coughed almost incessantly and her voice was hoarse and weak. Foley's Honey and Tar Compound brought relief at once and less than three bottles effected a complete cure." F. B. Johnson & Co.

COLDS VANISH

Quick, Sensible Method That Doesn't Upset the Stomach.

Have you heard of the overnight cold cure that is putting colds in the head and chest out of business between sunset and daybreak.

Here it is. Cut it out and save it if you don't need it now. If you have a cold, cough, throat soreness or acute catarrh, be sure and try it to-night just before going to bed. Pour a scant teaspoonful of HYOMEI (pronounce it High-o-me) into a bowl of boiling water, cover the head and bowl with a towel and breathe for several minutes the vapor that arises, then go to sleep and awake with a clear head and free from mucus.

HYOMEI is guaranteed for catarrh, colds, coughs, croup, asthma, sore throat and bronchitis or money back. Bottle of Hyomei 50 cents at F. B. Johnson & Co. and druggists everywhere.

High over the stage is a glass roof through which the sun shines brightly. One stage is curtained off on four sides and above with opaque canvasses, and within, under the glare of electric lights of fifty thousand candle power, is being enacted an incident in the life of an Eskimo, the aurora borealis being substituted for the too brilliant Bronx sun. On another stage, with a fourteenth century cathedral for a background, Jack Cade and his ruffians are beginning again the war of the roses. But to these we must close our eyes.

On the third stage is discovered the interior of the general postoffice and store of a frontier mining camp. Real letters are in the postoffice boxes, and real sides of bacon hang from real rafters. It is an anachronism that has escaped the eye of the busy director, but a real box of real breakfast food leans against the real counter. There, in wide hats, flannel shirts and leather breeches, made up with fearsome mustaches and barrels of grease paint, are a dozen frontiersmen—as true to life as the imagination of a New York theatrical manager can make them.

And there also is the villain, with sleek leather puttees and waxed mustaches, tempting the beautiful girl of the golden west with a present of a silver mounted riding crop. It matters little that the silver was applied

DANDRUFF AND ITCHING SCALP YIELD TO ZEMO TREATMENT

Why should you continue to experiment with salves, greasy lotions and fancy hair dressings trying to rid your scalp of germ life. They can't do it because they cannot penetrate to the seat of the trouble and draw the germ life to the surface of the scalp and destroy it. Why not try a PROVEN REMEDY? One that will do this. We have a remedy that will rid the scalp of germ life and in this way will cure DANDRUFF and ITCHING SCALP.

This remedy is ZEMO, a clean, refined, penetrating scalp tonic that goes right to the seat of the trouble and drives the germ life to the surface and destroys it. A shampoo with ZEMO (ANTISEPTIC) SOAP and one application of ZEMO will entirely rid the scalp of dandruff and scurf. Do not hesitate, but get a bottle of ZEMO today. It acts on a new principle and will do exactly what we claim for it.

Watch Your Kidneys

Their action controls your health. Read what Foley Kidney Pills have done for your neighbor. J. W. Sharits, of Union City, says, "Over five years I suffered a great deal with my kidneys, having backache so severe that at times I suffered much misery while moving around. My kidney action was frequent, the kidneys being very weak and the secretions cloudy. In the morning on arising had dizzy spells and headaches. I was gradually growing worse when I started taking Foley Kidney Pills. In a short time the backaches left me and the kidneys became strong and their action natural. The headaches and dizziness all left, so that I again feel well and strong. Although 70 years old I am able to do a hard day's work without suffering and discomfort. This was all brought about by Foley Kidney Pills which I gladly recommend." F. B. Johnson & Co.

Smoke FAIR PROMISE 5c Cigars.

to the riding crop from a can of aluminum paint after the rest of the scene was set. It is the same in the picture. A burley westerner with a crockery accent rides furiously up to the door on a broncho, but lately graduated from a butener's cart and throws the mail bags into the room.

There are lines to be said and they are spoken just as if there were a thousand people in front instead of only the stage director, the camera man, and you. The scene is rehearsed over and over again, many when every man knows his part—not only the words to be spoken but the steps to be taken, the gestures to be made, and the facial expressions to be accentuated—the director nods to the camera man, the actors again go through with their parts, the camera man turns a crank, and in the space of two minutes a part of a film for a great western drama has been made.

Then, still in wide hats, leather breeches and grease paint, the actors all file out into the street followed by the director and the camera man, and pile into two huge sightseeing automobiles. The procession moves off toward the setting sun and halts besides a driveway in Van Cortlandt park. They climb to the top of knoll; then is discovered a real sun enough, for truly, gold min carefully placed there an hour before by a property man. And here again the actors rehearse, the stage director curses, and finally the camera man turns the crank. Another hundred feet of film for another great western drama, and all within the hearing of the ghost of Deidrich Knickerbocker.

In other ways than by the mere absence of boxes, parquet, balcony and gallery, does this three-stage theater in the Bronx differ from the ordinary theater where living actors play dead parts. The stage as the spectator knows it is wider at the footlights than at the back drop; in the moving picture studio the perspective being reversed, the stage is narrow at the front and wide at the back. The actors in the western drama were not in point of fact, in the room of the general store with its real bacon and real breakfast food, but were some ten or fifteen feet in front of it, the stage setting being only the background.

Chalk lines were drawn on the floor, converging at the camera's mouth, and woe be unto that actor so careless or so luckless as to step outside of these converging lines and thus get out of the picture. In the ordinary moving picture play, the action takes place in a space not wider than eight feet, and in the picture, a detail rarely noticed by the spectator, the players are all cut off at the knees.

In this particular studio five reels are produced each week, each reel averaging not less than fifteen separate scenes. Here the actors work from sun to sun and the click of the camera crank is never still.

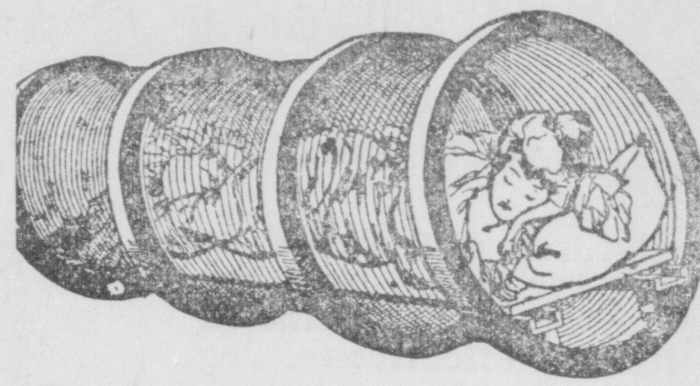

While the greater part of the film producing business is carried on in the metropolitan studios and in nearby parks and residential districts, all the larger companies maintain road companies as well. Several concerns have permanent studios at Los Angeles, where advantage is taken of the subtropical scenery, the mountains and the sea. Many of the so-called "western" films are made in Arizona, Wyoming, Colorado, and Montana by traveling stock companies. Other American stock companies have gone abroad, one concern to Cuba, another to Africa, and so on. One American company, desiring to "film" Boucicault's play, "Colleen Bawn," sent a special company of actors and camera men to Ireland to make the pictures in the actual setting of the play, the Lakes of Killarney.

Without opiates or harmful drugs of any kind Foley's Honey and Tar Compound stops coughs and cures colds. Do not accept any substitute. F. B. Johnson & Co.

An Alarm at Night

That strikes terror to the entire household is the loud, hoarse and metallic cough of croup. No mistaking it, and fortunate then the lucky parents who keep Foley's Honey and Tar Compound on hand. H. W. Cassleman, Canton, N. Y., says: "It is worth its weight in gold. Our little children are troubled with croup and hoarseness, and all we give them in Foley's Honey and Tar Compound. I always have a bottle of it in the house." F. B. Johnson & Co.

'Time's Flight Turned Backward' SAGE AND SULPHUR Made Her Look Twenty Years Younger

READ MRS. HERRICK'S SWORN STATEMENT

STATE OF NEW YORK }
COUNTY OF MONROE } ss
ROCHESTER, N. Y.

Nancy A. Herrick, being duly sworn, deposes and says: When I was a girl, I had a head of heavy, long, dark brown hair which was the envy of my schoolmates, and which attracted the attention and remarks of strangers. As I grew older, my hair commenced to come out, just a little at first, but gradually more and more, and then began to turn gray. I was induced by the many good reports I had heard of Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy to try a bottle. My hair was quite thin and gray when I began using Sage and Sulphur, and you can imagine my satisfaction when I found that it was fast coming back to its natural condition, being thicker, darker and more glossy than it had been for a long time. I continued to use Sage and Sulphur, and my hair is now as heavy, dark and smooth as when I was a girl of sixteen. It is now four years since I commenced using Sage and Sulphur, and my hair is still in splendid condition.

Sworn to before me this 14th day of July, 1902

The McNamara Confession.

The news of the McNamara confession was like a thunderbolt from a clear sky. It was a big surprise, especially since it was reported that the trial would probably drag along for a year. The surprise was not as to the guilt of the McNamaras, but that they should throw up the sponge when labor unions were making such strenuous efforts to defend them whether guilty or not.

The crime for which the McNamaras are on trial, was one of the most gigantic and atrocious in the history of this country. Hundreds of thousands of dollars worth of property was destroyed, and in all the various explosions laid at the door of these arch dynamiters, upwards of a hundred people lost their lives—nineteen or twenty in the Times explosion alone. It is highly gratifying that this famous trial came to a sudden end as there was some danger of further bloodshed. The irresponsible labor agitators were ready to stoop to anything to help the McNamaras and consequently some serious developments were feared. The attempt to bribe the jurors showed the desperation of those who aided the defense.

It is generally conceded that this case is a severe blow to union labor, but we doubt whether it will have any appreciable effect. It really should serve as a severe lesson to the laboring people to be careful in the future in following the advice of radical leaders.

The McNamaras were not the only guilty ones in this great dynamite conspiracy. It is true, they engineered the operations and disbursed the money, but someone furnished the money, and these are just as guilty. The government which has finally taken a hand in the matter, should continue its investigation and punish all those concerned.

Predictions on 1912.

(St. Louis Globe-Democrat.)

A correspondent who has recently visited nearly all the States feels sure that President Taft will be re-nominated, which is an easy guess, but adds that he will not be elected, a statement that is merely a conjecture for which no substantial reasons are given. The number of voters in the United States has become so great that wise political forecasters are cautious. There are new elements in the case, one of which is the fact that a million women, in six States, will have full right to the ballot next November. Not since 1888 has the Republican nominee been in much doubt, and in the last three presidential elections the result was practically sure. Conditions are now more disturbed and a look ahead is more difficult. The uncertainties of party action are chiefly on the Democratic side. No one can tell who will head the Democratic ticket, what the Democratic paramount issue will be, or what the party may attempt in the way of fusion. The Republicans can foresee their candidate and an adherence to long-established principles.

In the general situation a leaf from history is instructive. At the Republican National Convention of 1896 Mr. Bryan was the unknown correspondent of a small newspaper. The next month he was in Chicago as a member of a contesting delegation from Nebraska to the Democratic National convention. He was not admitted as a delegate for several sessions. Two days after the contestants from Nebraska were seated, one of them, William J. Bryan, with whom the country was unacquainted, headed the Democratic ticket on a platform containing propositions never before accepted by the Democratic party. The prophets saw nothing of this in advance, nor of the extraordinary exciting campaign that followed. On the strength of fusion Mr. Bryan received a million more votes than any former Democratic nominee had obtained. Yet it was not enough. The suddenness with which the Democratic party has swung in new directions is the main point to consider in estimating the uncertainties of next year. The capacity of the party to blunder also enters into the case.

In the current issue of the Commoner, William J. Bryan places the skids under the Champ Clark presidential boom. Champ once remarked on the floor of the house of representatives that the second election of Grover Cleveland was the biggest calamity to mankind since the fall of Adam, but he is probably thinking now that after all the worst was yet to come.

The New Castle Courier plainly intimates that Congressman Finly Gray and Judge George L. Gray have a well equipped political machine which is being used in this district to the discomfiture of certain Democrats who are not disposed to look upon their statesmanship and judicial aptitude with the eyes of faith only and who are demanding more tangible evidence.

The party of governors and friends from the West that are touring the East are enthusiastic back slappers. They should slap their pockets occasionally to make sure that the contents thereof have not been removed by the light fingered gentry.

Had President Taft mailed his message anonymously to the magazine editors, how many would have declined it with thanks, remarking that it did not seem to fit the illustrations which they had to work off on the public?

Gov. Marshall's expert field examiners ferreted out the official record of former Mayor Anderson, of Huntington, and found the city of Huntington owed Mr. Anderson $440. But it cost the taxpayers of Huntington about $440 to find it out.

It is estimated that a presidential primary in Indiana would cost $200,000. If one were held it would be mighty interesting to know who put up the money for the different candidates. The suggestion looks crooked and corrupt.

J. P. Morgan is now located in the 31st floor of the Bankers Trust Co. in New York. As he has very little to do, he will be glad to stop and gossip with any of our citizens who may visit the metropolis.

The government printing office having published 21,967,719 public documents the past year, is probably the greatest supplier of old junk in the country.

When the reporters are listening the congressmen will speak respectfully of the tariff board, but for purposes of practical politics they will place a higher value on garden seeds.

Roosevelt is charged with having made a deal with Wall street, but there will not be much complaint if he worked off the two spots on them and gave them no high trumps.

CHRISTMAS OFFERINGS

This is indeed Rush County's Gift Store, accorded this distinction because of the wide variety of giveable articles gathered together under one roof. The burdens of holiday purchasing are but pleasures when confronted by such an array of Kris Kingle's contributions. With but a few steps, one can satisfy his demands for all ages, from the toddling infant to the grayhaired grandfather. One may be intensely practical, and find an endless number of what we call necessities, that will bring joy to any heart. Then there are the unusual, the extraordinary, the gifts that are different, the class of gifts this store gifts the market to find. Whatever your whims and fancies dictate, you are almost sure to find it here. Every gift chosen from the Christmas lines of this store, carries with it to the recipient the assurance that it is the best of its kind, and suitable things are here to fit any purse. It is now well into December and each day's delay means the choicest articles are gone. Don't wait. Come today.

SOCIETY NEWS

Mrs. Theodore Reed will entertain the Elite club Monday afternoon at her home in North Main street.

Connersville News: Mr. and Mrs. Henry Jordan were host and hostess at a delicious dinner, at midday on Thanksgiving day at their cozy home in Indiana avenue. Their guests were Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Jordan and family of Rushville, and Mr. and Mrs. John Geise of Connersville.

Connersville News: Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Harrison, of West Eighth street, entertained at a delightful dinner, Thanksgiving Day, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Caldwell and daughter, Miss Helen, Mr. and Mrs. Alva Herkless and daughter, Miss Jean, and J. A. Jones, all of Rushville.

New Castle Courier: Mr. and Mrs. Marion Hamilton, east of town, had as their Thanksgiving day guests Mr. and Mrs. Frank Capp of Rushville. In the evening they composed a theater party at the "Girl of My Dreams" at English's opera house, Indianapolis.

The women of the Pleasant Ridge Aid Society entertained the gentlemen of the society with a turkey supper on Thanksgiving eve. There was turkey and everything that goes with it. There was a musical and literary program which everyone seemed to enjoy. There were seventy-one present.

Mr. and Mrs. William Moore entertained the following guests on Thursday at their home in Posey township: Mr. and Mrs. Ben Collins, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Moore, Mr. and Mrs. Ira Moore and Sanford Moore of this city, Mr. and Mrs. James Moore and family of Arlington, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Moore and daughter Marie of Lewisville, Garland Moore of Carthage, Mr. and Mrs. Abe Moore, Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Moore and family, Miss Marie Long of Spiceland and Fred Howren of New Castle.

Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Jackson of Washington township entertained the following guests with a sumptuous turkey dinner on Thanksgiving day: Mrs. George Manlove, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Knotts, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Knotts, Mrs. Nora Stuckey and son, Ernest, Miss Bessie Knotts, Mrs. Ida Jackson and daughters, Flossie, Hazel and Zula, Mr. and Mrs. George Sweet and sons, Hassel and Guy, Mr. and Mrs. W. As Carrier Downey on rural route No. 2 had a birthday yesterday, some one, presumably his better half, proposed a post card shower. Cards to the number of 180 were received for which Mr. Downey thanks his many friends. But the card shower was not the only shower. The patrons on route 2 heard of his birthday and decided, in connection with the post card shower, to donate some of the substantial of life, such as corn, apples, pears, potatoes, lard, honey, butter, sausage, spareribs, dressed rabbits, dressed hens, apple butter, jellies, canned fruit and pumpkins. They loaded the mail wagon to the extent that the carrier had to "holer enough" as he was liable to have to walk or ride the horse in. The heavy load made him an hour late arriving here. As Mr. Downey cannot thank all the donors individually he wishes to express his gratitude to his patrons and hopes to return their good will and try in the future, if possible, to be a more faithful servant.

AMUSEMENTS

The Princess offers for the Saturday night program a Kalem and Essanay picture. "The Blackfoot Halfbreed" is a thrilling Indian romance and is said to be a good western picture. "When He Did" is the title of an extra good comedy by the Essanay company.

"The Rose and the Dagger" a Rex film at the Palace tonight is a sensational picture and very dramatic. "Nobody Loves a Fat Woman" is a Thanhouser comedy and is said to be unusually good. Edwin Biddle will sing the illustrated song. Monday and Tuesday nights the attraction will be "David Copperfield" in three reels. The picture is based on the famous novel of the same name and the characters are said to be well drawn.

EX-SENATOR MILLS

Lawyer Who Represented the Lone Star State in the House and Senate for Twenty-Six Years Passes Away.

Corsicana, Tex.—The death of former United States Senator Roger Q. Mills occurred at his home in Corsicana, after an illness lasting four years. He was known as a Democrat and tariff reformer of the most uncompromising type and had rounded out a long and brilliant career in both houses at Washington. During the 19 years he served in the house of representatives and the seven he was in the United States senate, Mr. Mills was a leader of the Democratic party, although criticised and opposed by many of his colleagues because of his radical views on tariff matters.

Roger Quarles Mills was born near the old town of Salem in Todd county, Kentucky, in 1832. When he was 17 years old he moved to Palestine, Texas, and soon afterward took up the study of law. When he was 20 years old he was admitted to the bar by means of a special act of the legislature. He settled at Corsicana, hung out his shingle and went into politics enthusiastically. Clients came rapidly and Mills soon became known as one of the best lawyers in the Lone Star state. When the Civil war commenced he entered the Confederate service as lieutenant colonel, fought at Wilson's creek, Chickamauga, Missionary Ridge and Atlanta, was wounded three times and finally came out of the war a brigade commander. After some experience in the Texas legislature he was elected to the house of representatives in 1873, and served continuously in that body until 1892. In that year he was elected to the senate, where for seven years he commanded respect and made a distinct impression. When he retired from political life he interested himself in the oil business and made a great deal of money.

In his time Mills was a figure that Washington people were fond of pointing out to strangers. Tall, straight as an Indian, and of commanding presence, he was a man to be marked in any crowd. His forehead was high, broad and full and he combed his gray hair well back from it. His nose was straight. He wore a mustache and a goatee. His face was full and his complexion fair. Senator Mills preferred boots to shoes, went about in the double-breasted frock coat affected by statesmen, preferred low turnover collars and black string ties and appeared always in spotless white linen. He liked felt hats, wore spectacles and disliked jewelry. His watch was something of a curiosity. It was a finely chased, solid gold hunting case timepiece, the face of which bore the 11 letters of his name, R-O-G-E-R-Q-M-I-L-L-S, in place of figures, beginning with the hour marked seven, and the lone star of Texas taking the place of the 12th letter and standing for six. In manners he was blunt and straightforward, being a man of strong convictions and unquestioned courage. He was an excellent speaker and kept his head in debate.

BASKET BALL INJURES WOMEN

Physician Declares Game is Not a Sport for Girls Because of Its Dangers.

Spokane, Wash.—Paul Pattison of Colfax, prosecuting attorney of Whitman county, Washington, whose wife is recovering in a Spokane hospital from an injury sustained while playing basketball in the championship series, is authority for the statement that with a single exception every member of the Colfax team, of which he was manager, has undergone an operation, and that every player on the Chesney Normal School team has been under the surgeon's knife.

Dr. A. E. Shult, who attended Mrs. Pattison, declares that basket ball is injurious and should not be engaged in by girls or women, adding: "The nature of women should keep them from this dangerous sport."

Negro Graveyard on Fire. Winchester, Va.—Terrified negroes ran pellmell shouting "Judgment day is here!" when fire was discovered in the Orrick cemetery, in which hundreds of colored people are buried. A lot owner had gone there to burn dry grass on his lot, and the fire made rapid headway, enveloping the entire cemetery in flames in a short time.

Hope and Christmas Shopping
By Katherine Pope

ERHAPS, first of all, hope is needed at Christmas time and in Christmas shopping. For this season which tradition has builded up as the gladdest, merriest time of all the year, in reality for the majority is an anxious, overburdened, dreaded period. In modern life the gift load has increased along with other complexities, has become in the majority of cases almost too weighty to be borne, hanging heavy on the consciousness from midsummer to December 25th. Desperation drives us to seek solution of the painful riddle, and at least a glimmering of light seems to come our way. In desperation we resolve, seeing no other help in this so urgent need, to use a little new thought, mental healing, or whatever you call it that is supposed to make hard things easy.

And this glimmering of light we would have penetrate the darkness of others. Hence these lines.

Suppose you have a list of half a hundred "expecting" from you. In which case, we make bold to advise, don't knit your brows over the disjointed combination of your flat purse and their expectations and give it all up as hopeless or at least bungling; just put on a new thought, or mental healing expression and hope. Declare to yourself: "I am not going to worry, come what may; for the first time in these many distraught years I'm going to make a stagger at enjoying Christmas, every bit of it—the survey of that army of expectants, the survey of resources, the study of fifty diverse tastes and wants, the heroic endeavor to minister to these wants with purse lean as shrunken shanks of Shakespeare." Just force a smile—mental healing, or new thought—and drive ahead. Inwardly affirm, and outwardly express, "All's well, all's coming out right," then go on down town for the test.

But, so the smile will not rub off, the inward and outward serenity be not roughened, we beg you go early. It is most dangerous to put the strongest resolution, sturdiest effort, on trial in the maelstrom of after-luncheon Christmas shopping. The mad mob that at this time surges through aisles, jostles and tramples in elevators, bangs heavy doors on weak ones struggling in the rear, this mad mob might prove a successful serpent in that paradise of serenity enveloping you.

If you are calm and smiling in making your purchases, of course it may startle the girls behind the counters, cause no little agitation, but they'll recover and you'll have them fairly hypnotized, can get out of them almost anything you will. We tried it yesterday ourselves with marked success, got through a list of much length in miraculously short order. The shopping proved quite a social success, exchange of courtesies rather than mere exchange and barter; and, fooling aside, really not the deadly, deadening, nerve-racking, loathsome, unholy, un-Christian fight Christmas shopping has been with us this many a day. And, fooling aside, we really found quite a lot of fairly good things to be had at moderate outlay, believe the things came to view partly because we were not fussing and fuming about the matter.

By the way, does not Bernard Shaw declare that about the only folk that have manners nowadays are the folk that serve behind counters? To some the manners may spell mere servility, bespeak inferiority on the part of the well-mannered; but there are still left a few people in this age of falling-down of every good old standard that cling secretly to a liking for courtesy and graciousness, are able to recognize it as the real thing though apparently presenting itself as something offered for sale, to be had for money. And there is no finer thing in this season of strike and ill-will than the infinite patience and heroic calm of the girl behind the counter.

After you have hopefully and smilingly made those hopeful purchases and the purchases have arrived at your domicile, without delay, set to work at doing them up; we beg of you for the success of the experiment don't wait till the eleventh hour for the sticking of the Christmas stickers, the tying of the everlasting Christmas ribbon, the endless addressing and weighing and stamping. There is nothing so calculated to make you hate this maddest, merriest season of Dickens' fancy as having to hunt around at the last moment for wrapping paper and string and appropriate boxes and tissue paper and cards and all the rest of the lumber essential to "getting things off." In gift-packing glad Christmas time numberless brittle tempers are broken, numberless resisting tempers cracked.

A HARMLESS WAY TO DARKEN THE HAIR

A Little Sage and Sulphur Makes Gray Hair Vanish—A Remedy for All Hair Troubles

Who does not know the value of sage and sulphur for keeping the hair dark, soft, glossy and in good condition? As a matter of fact, sulphur is a natural element of hair, and a deficiency of it in the hair is held by many scalp specialists to be connected with loss of color and vitality of the hair. Unquestionably, there is no better remedy for hair and scalp troubles, especially premature grayness, than sage and sulphur, if properly prepared. The Wyeth Chemical Company of New York put up an ideal remedy of this kind, called Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy, and authorize druggists to sell it under guarantee that the money will be refunded if it fails to do exactly as represented.

If you have dandruff, or if your hair is thin or turning gray, get a bottle of this remedy from your druggist to-day, and see what it will do for you.

This preparation is offered to the public at fifty cents a bottle, and is recommended and sold by all druggists. Special Agents, Hargrove and Mullin,

"STALLION COMPANIES," PROPERLY ORGANIZED, WILL IMPROVE HORSE PRODUCTION

By D. O. THOMPSON, Animal Husbandry Department, Purdue University Experiment Station
Purdue University Agricultural Extension

The patronage of the stallion should be at least partially assured in advance, and the type of mares constituting this patronage, together with the direction of improvement desired, should determine to a great degree the type and breed of stallion to be secured.

The repeated number of times that farmers and horsemen have been led by smooth-tongued promoters, who have mediocre stallions to unload at exorbitant prices, into forming a "stallion company" and the number of times those men have counted their losses, would seem to be warnings to the public to keep out of the "stallion company" business. Notwithstanding the fact that many stallion companies have been floated in the middle west to the financial loss of a goodly number of men, and the temporary detriment of the horse industry, the "stallion company" in its best form has served many communities as a means to an end which could be attained in no other way.

To be successful, a "stallion company" should be formed and operated only upon a proper appreciation of these well-known facts. First, the company should be formed, not upon enthusiasm worked up by some strange promoter or stallion agent, but by farmers and horsemen in a community who find themselves so situated that the services of a truly high-class stallion of the desired breed or type are not available. The company should be formed to supply a demand which cannot be or is not satisfied by private enterprise and capital. The community in which a few privately owned, valuable stallions, with ability to get marketable foals, are stood for public service, has little need for a stallion company.

Second. The most desirable stallions are not peddled about the country. They should be obtained, when desired, of reliable breeders and importers, at their stables or at the leading state and national shows.

Third. Twenty or thirty farmers representing an average of not less than two mares of approximately uniform type, and a territory of about ten miles in diameter, should constitute the company. They should be financially able to subscribe equal shares in the company sufficient to purchase the stallion they desire. A greater number is not generally desirable because of the difficulty of getting many men to work in harmony. A smaller number increases the cost per member, and limits the number and distribution in the territory of the men interested in the success of the company.

Fourth. The company should realize that it takes more than a year or two to create any degree of improvement, and should be a permanent organization. Matters of type and breed should be settled at the outset and strictly adhered to throughout ten, twenty, fifty or a hundred years. By this long continued adherence to a definite breed, and continually securing superior stallions of that breed, the community, through the company, will establish a reputation as a horse producing center.

Fifth. The patronage of the stallion should be partially assured in advance, and the type of mares constituting this patronage together with the direction of improvement desired should determine to a great extent the type and breed of stallion to be secured. To feed, shelter, and manage a stallion for a year, and pay a premium on sufficient insurance, besides paying 6 per cent on the investment, requires a considerable patronage.

The details of organizing a stallion company will be taken up in a subsequent article.

TELLS HOW TO CONSERVE SOIL

Purdue Experiment Station Expert Explains to Farmers How to Save Fertility of Land.

REALIZE IMPORTANCE NOW

Suggests as First Important Thing to Study the Value of Crop Rotation.

"Never before in the history of the state has there been as earnest an appreciation of the values of soil fertility in agricultural progress," said Professor A. T. Wiancko, head of the soils and crops department at the Purdue experiment station, in an interview on the subject. "The farmer is beginning to realize the importance of maintaining the vitality of the soil, that his farm may be as productive, twenty years from today, as it is today. Nature must receive aid in the carrying on of this creative principle and the soils and crops department is doing its utmost to teach the most feasible methods of attaining the desired results."

Professor Wiancko's department is one of the most energetic in experimental work, and has done much toward the compiling of valuable data for the use of Indiana farmers interested in soil fertility maintenance. At the farmers' short course now being held throughout the state, lectures and demonstrations by members of the department are proving of vital interest and are receiving the commendation of the thousands of students they reach.

Professor Wiancko suggested that the first important field to be studied by the farmer should be the value of crop rotations. "The liberal use of legumes must be emphasized, since these crops offer the most economical method of reintroducing the nitrogenous element of the soil. Clover, cow peas and soy beans are especially valuable in this connection, inasmuch as they have the ability to draw nitrogen from the air and effect a most beneficial result upon the soil."

"Of course, proper drainage and the elimination of soil acidity, where such exists, are important matters to consider, as otherwise the work of the beneficial bacteria and the decaying organic matter can not perform their proper functions," added Professor Wiancko. "Where there is any real doubt as to soil acidity a trial application of should be made and the result on the clover crop noted."

"Generally, ground limestone will be found economical and satisfactory. At least a ton should be used to every acre of ground. If pure, seventy-six pounds of water-slaked lime has the same beneficial effect as fifty-six pounds of freshly burnt lime, eighty or ninety pounds of air-slaked lime, or one hundred pounds of the ground limestone."

Professor Wiancko said that live-stock farming can be recommended as the improvement of soil fertility. "He should make all the manure he can get it at once on the land" suggested the soils and crops chief. "If the manure is permitted to be around and waste, it loses its value, and the use of commercial fertilizer is then necessary to help out the supply."

"The manure can be considerably improved by the addition of some phosphate. Forty or fifty pounds of phosphate a ton should be used and for the ordinary crops, light applications of manure made more frequently will undoubtedly be made far more profitable than heavier applications at longer intervals."

"Nitrogen is the most expensive material to purchase," said Professor Wiancko, "and on that account every effort should be made to add to the supply by growing a legume crop. The use of clover should be recommended, and if this fails, cow peas and soy beans should be tried. The Purdue farm has been aided in this manner now for several years. This added nitrogen has been estimated at $15 to $20 annually, and has been all secured by the sowing of say beans and cow peas after the wheat crop has been harvested."

Whether rock phosphate or acid phosphate should be used has long been a momentous problem to the Indiana farmer, and Professor Wiancko says that the question is merely one of the period for which the application is desired. "If the application is designed to last a number of years, the raw rock phosphate is probably as efficient and economical, but for the first year some of the more soluble acid phosphate should be included in the application. Rock phosphate will be far more quickly available in liberable amounts of organic matter are applied in conjunction and the longer the application before planting the greater will become the amount available for the first crop."

MR. SHUSTER HOLDS ON TO TICKLISH JOB

Will Wait for Russian Troops to Remove Him.

Tehran, Dec. 2.—Until Russia removes him, Mr. Shuster, the American treasurer general, will continue his duties. He told the parliament that he did not wish to take part in the issue with Russia, but would naturally abide by its decision. The parliament is supporting him. The government has increased the military guard about Mr. Shuster, as attempts at his assassination are feared.

Assassins murdered Masir Ed Dowleh and also attempted to kill former Premier Mohsir Ed Dowleh. The latter, however, escaped with severe wounds. Both of these men, like Salar Ed Dowleh, who was shot dead while leaving his house yesterday, were followers of the former shah, Mohammed Ali Mirza.

Invasion of Persia by Russian troops is now an actuality. Cossacks who have been held at Reest have been ordered to march on Tehran. This is considered an act of war.

Shakers Not Held on Charge of Chloroforming Pain-Wracked Woman.

Kissimmee, Fla., Dec. 2.—The Osceola county grand jury tacitly has given its indorsement to euthanasia. It found no bill against Brother Esbert Gillette, accused of "assisting out of this life" the aged and pain-wracked Sadie Marchant.

The grand jury completed its investigation early last night and made its report. The announcement caused a ripple of interest, but little surprise, as for several days there had been rumors that no indictment would be returned against the members of the Shaker colony here who were alleged to have chloroformed a woman at her own request.

Edward Bucher Indicted on Charge of Deadly Assault.

Bloomfield, Ind., Dec. 2.—The grand jury has returned an indictment against Edward Bucher of Worthington, charging him with assault and battery with intent to kill, his victim being Calvin Figg, who, it is alleged, Bucher attacked and beat into insensibility and, believing him dead, placed him beside the railroad track to leave the impression that he had been killed by the train. Bucher is now in the county jail.

PUT DEMOCRATS ON DEFENSIVE

Indiana Republicans Are Confidently Waiting For Opening of Congress This Month.

BOARD WILL SOLVE TARIFF

President Will Stand For Revision In Accord With Its Suggestions—Trust Questions in Fore.

Indianapolis, Ind., December 1.—Having put the Democrats on the defensive in Indiana on state issues, the Republicans under President Taft's progressive leadership, are confidently waiting for the December opening of the session of the national congress. There is the utmost confidence among Indiana Republicans that the coming congressional session will end, as the special session ended, with Taft on top.

The tariff board, in which Indiana Republicans have a special interest, by reason of the fact that Senator Beveridge was the original tariff commission champion, is expected to report to the congress such facts as will enable the congress to go forward intelligently to the solution of some of the big tariff problems. With the figures furnished by the tariff board as a basis from which to work, it is believed the congress will be able to do some good sensible adjusting on lines desired by the people and on lines suggested by changed conditions.

The people feel reassured because of the fact that when the tariff is altered in accord with the recommendations of the tariff board, there will be nothing in the action to throw terror into any heart. It will be a Republican revision, from the standpoint of the preservation of the protective principle and the square deal.

There are reports that the Democrats will refuse to assist in any tariff revisions based on the facts provided by the tariff board. In case the majority in the national house does take this rank partisan stand, and seek to block real tariff reform, of course the people will measure Democratic statesmanship and will know what to do with the Democratic majority.

President Taft not only will stand fast for tariff revision in accord with the suggestions of the tariff board, but he will put the trust question to the fore in such a way as to impress his aggressive policies on the people and on the congress. The people are with Taft for the enforcement of the anti-trust law. President Taft is stronger with the masses than ever because he is obviously sincere and earnest in his advancement of the cause of the people as against the big combinations in restraint of trade.

The question of restraint of trade and freight rates and manipulation of transportation and market facilities as those things relate to the high cost of living, will be prominent in the discussions the coming winter at Washington. President Taft returned from his tour of the west and middle west with a large and clear conception of the needs and wishes of the people. He will embody those needs and desires in his message to the congress, and he will then go to congress and get the answer, as he has done heretofore. It is expected that the winter will see Taft's remarkable record largely enhanced by additional important achievements. When the record is written in advance of the 1912 campaign it will be found that Taft stands at the front of illustrious presidents as a man of remendous achievements for the people's good.

How to Test Soils for Fertilizer Requirements

By S. D. CONNER, Chemist
Soils and Crops Department,
Purdue Experiment Station
Purdue University Agricultural Extension

The popular idea of testing soil is to send a sample to the chemist and have it analyzed. As there are no chemical methods known that will tell accurately just how available the plant food is in soil, it may be said that this opinion is to a large extent wrong. Soil fertility is a complex factor, depending upon many things besides the amount of total plant food that might be determined by the chemist. For this reason the experiment station does not expend its time and energy making analyses of soils to determine fertilizer requirements.

The most reliable method of testing soils that has ever been devised is the field plant fertilizer test. In other words, you put the question to the soil directly, and the answer is obtained in the crop harvested. In this system a portion of the field to be tested is laid off in long, narrow plats side by side. Every third plat is left without any fertilizer, as a check. The

1	No fertilizer
2	Nitrogen Phosphoric acid Potash
3	Phosphoric acid
4	No fertilizer
5	Nitrogen Potash
6	Nitrogen Phosphoric acid
7	No fertilizer

other plats are each treated with a different kind of fertilizer, as shown in the diagram below. The plats are all given the same cultural treatment and the crop on each plat is harvested separately and weighed. The fertilizer or manure producing the largest increase indicates the kind of plant food most needed for that particular crop and soil. As different kinds of crops and variations in seasons may indicate the need of one element one year and another element in a following year, it is well to carry on the test for several seasons to get a reliable answer to the question of soil needs. Strips 14 feet wide by 155½ feet long, containing one-twentieth of an acre, are a convenient size for the plats. If ten pounds of nitrate of soda is used to furnish nitrogen, ten pounds of acid phosphate to furnish phosphoric acid and three pounds of muriate of potash to furnish potash, the farmer could mix the different fertilizers as indicated in the accompanying diagram. The materials can be purchased for most fertilizer companies. A comparison of the yields from plats 2 and 3 will show whether nitrogen is of benefit. The yield of plat 5 in comparison with that of plat 2 will show whether phosphoric acid is needed. The need for potash will be shown by comparing the yield of plat 2 with that of plat 6. It is best to have three unfertilized plats so that any uniformity of the soil will be shown.

The experiment station has conducted such tests upon all the important soil types in the state. The results of these tests are used as a basis in advising farmers as to their fertilizer needs.

Buy Famous Steer.

The agricultural extension department has purchased the famous short-horn steer, Benefactor, for use in short course judging work. This steer was purchased from Tomson Brothers of Kansas City, and is undoubtedly the most noted steer in America today. He was shown for three years and won a large number of prizes, and at the American Royal Live Stock show at Kansas City last month was champion of the breed. The department is to be congratulated upon getting such an excellent animal for the short course judging work. A large number of farmers will get their impressions of an ideal fat steer more firmly fixed by a study of this animal.

Dust as a Disinfectant.

Look after the dust boxes. Now is the time to gather the fine road dust. Store a sufficient amount of it in a large dry goods box near the henhouse, where it will keep dry. For a sprinkler on the roost and as a general deodorizer it is the best and cheapest. It will absorb all dampness and prove rich fertilizer after it has served in the henhouse.

The horticultural department receives a large number of apples from farmers all over the state who send them in for identification. The department gives this information free to any one in the state.

The One That Got Away.

The biggest fish you ever caught
Was the one that got away;
The biggest chance you ever sought
Was the one that wouldn't stay.
But if another chance you seek,
Don't sit around and wish.
A little WANT AD. try this week—
That hook will catch the fish.

PREPARE FOR HOLIDAY RUSH

Postoffice Employees Make Ready For Heavy Christmas Mail Which Will Begin Soon.

PUBLIC MAY ASSIST MUCH

Patrons, by Carelessness and Flagrant Errors, Make Duties Much Heavier.

With the coming of the Christmas season the rush at the Rushville postoffice begins. Probably there are very few if any more accommodating or more obliging postoffice employees in the country than those at the local office, but few people realize with what they have to contend every day and can hardly conceive of some of their difficulties during a rush season.

The most annoying and flagrant of all the numerous errors and mistakes made by the public in sending articles through the mail is failure to write the address of the person to whom they wish Uncle Sam to deliver it. Score after score of letters and packages are put into the local office every month which bear no address or any other mark of identification. It is obvious that the confusion resulting from this fact is found to be very great during a rush season.

Another important detail which should be attended to by each person that sends a letter or package through the mail is to place his name and address in the upper left hand corner of the letter or package. If this were attended to and each letter properly addressed many millions of dollars could be saved each year that are now used to operate the dead-letter office.

So great has the volume of business done each year by the dead letter office become that the government has sent out model forms of address urging people to follow it. According to the government report more than thirteen million pieces of mail were sent to the dead-letter office last year which could not be delivered because of carelessness in writing the addresses.

The local postoffice is getting ready to take care of the Christmas rush. There will be an extra-subcarrier, and the employees believe that with the help of the public in using care in addressing their mail that no delay in delivery will be experienced. It is also suggested that all valuable packages be registered and that people send their packages early and not wait until the day before Christmas.

Patrons are also warned against placing Red Cross Christmas seals over the cords which bind packages, as this raises the class of the piece from fourth to first class mail, by rendering it sealed against inspection.

TO MAKE HENS LAY

Agents are out in some parts of the country selling machines to make hens lay. Just now the price of eggs is so high, that anything that is calculated to make the hen come off her perch and go to laying would naturally be looked upon with favor by chicken owners. A good salesman can sell almost anything whether it has merit or not. It may be that the stuff these agents are offering is all right and again it may be far from right. The best way to make hens lay is to treat them kindly and speak loving words of encouragement. Besides that they should be well sheltered, well fed and well watered. Some times, too, a voting contest with suitable premiums of richly-seasoned and well-fattened worms will greatly aid in their enthusiastic devotion to business.

A doctor's wife just home in Paris from Annam, where she was attached to a branch of the Pasteur institute, relates that servant in that country have the curious habit of washing all dishes under the table, never on top.
